NOTICE

TO ALL WATER CONSUMERS

Owing to the reduced flow from our mountain source of water supply and the dropping of the water level in our wells, due to the small amount of rainfall last winter, it has become necessary for the water committee to order all sprinkling of lawns, flowers and gardens to be discontinued except during the hours of 6:00 to 8:00 a. m. and 6:00 to 8:00 p. m.

In order to maintain the pressure for domestic sprinkling, all irrigators must shut off their irrigating water between the hours of 6:00 and 8:00 a. m. and 6:00 and 8:00 p. m.

All consumers must keep their pipes, hydrants and faucets in good repair so that there shall be no leaks on same, and everybody is asked to use their best endeavors to stop all waste of water in any form, in order to conserve our wells.

Superintendent of Water Dept.

RECEPTION FOR SOLDIERS.

Our Returned Soldiers and Sailors to be Feted at the Woman's Club House, July 11

Although the greatest war the world has ever seen is ended and we are still a free people, we do not forget the sacrifice made by our soldiers and sailors nor the hardships they endured to prevent Hun kultur spreading over the United States.

In recognition of these services and as a slight token of the appreciation of the community, a public reception for Sierra Madre soldiers and sailors will be held at the Woman's Club House one week from tonight, Friday evening, July 11, at 8 o'clock, and every soldier and sailor who is or can get here is urged to attend, and all friends or relatives of absent ones are requested to notify them of the event and personally invite them to attend. The public is expected to fill the house—and yard—to show these ex-fighting men that our expressed sentiments are not mere words.

Although the Woman's Club has adjourned for the season, its president, Mrs. W. E. Walker, gladly consented to extend their activities to cover this reception and have been working this week on arrangements and program.

The following is a list of our soldiers and sailors so far as we have been able to ascertain. We solicit corrections and additions.

CARNIVAL-SUPPER-DANCE

The Girls of St. Catharine are giving a Carnival-Supper-Dance on Saturday evening, July 12th, at the gardens of Mrs. T. H. Graham, 457 N. Lima street.

There will be an inviting picnic supper served, in charge of Mrs. Goodfellow and Mrs. Graham.

Later there will be a pretty entertainment entitled, "In the Pale Moonlight," which will be directed by Miss Marjory Maughlin and Miss Helen Williams. The girls taking part in this will be: Misses Marjory Maughlin, Helen Williams, Martha Shaw, Harriet Sperry, Edith Steinberger, Esther Olsen, Frances Webster, Bay Farman, Margueret Elsner, Gertrude Elsner, Elsie Elsner, Jessie Ward, Marguerite Ward, Beatrice Ward. Music by Helen Sadler and Catharine Cutler.

After the entertainment there will be dancing, with music by the popular colored orchestra.

With all these attractions everyone should be happy and have a good time. A large crowd is expected.

CITY WATER SUPPLY SHORT

Notices were sent out by the water department instructing patrons to use water, on account of an inadequate supply.

MEMORIAL FOR SOLDIERS.

The Boys Who Saved Us from Hun Kultur to be Honored in Fitting Manner

For six months a memorial to our soldiers and sailors has been talked of but nothing definite decided upon. While other towns and cities have gone ahead with their buildings, parks, tablets, etc., we have all been too busy with other things to get together and decide upon the manner in which we will honor our home warriors.

Now, however, the various drives, campaigns, etc., are behind us, the deck is clear for action and we should take up this important matter and push it thru.

The News suggests that the city lot just west of the Sierra Madre Garage be converted into a lawn or park, with grass, flowers, trees, etc., with an ornamental combination building on the rear, facing Central Avenue, comprising a band stand, rest room and comfort station, and at the extreme rear a room for our fire engine. At the front of the park a drinking fountain might be placed, on the base of which a tablet containing the names of "our boys" be conspicuously displayed, and dedicate the park to our soldiers and sailors.

This plan was suggested by Jim Hawks, who was assisted in working out some of the details by Judge Forman and the writer.

The Board of Trade already has something over $300 in a "Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Fund" and the extra amount necessary could quickly be secured if some definite end was in view.

The News only offers the above as a suggestion to get something started, and if others suggest a better plan we will work for it just as hard. The way to do a thing is to DO it.

This will convert a disagreeable "eyesore," which should have been obliterated before the old shack and lumber pile were placed there, into a beauty spot to be admired by all. The lot belongs to the city and, with the permission of the trustees, the only expense would be in fixing it up.

SOLDIER SERVICE BUTTONS

Col. A. M. Wetherill, who is in charge of the recruiting service in this district, is in receipt of a consignment of bronze Victory buttons. They are now ready for distribution.

The bronze Victory button is being given to all honorably discharged soldiers who served during the period of the war, and all such men who will call at the local recruiting station in the San Fernando building, Los Angeles, and present the original copy of their discharge, will be given the button.

Soldiers who have received wounds will be given a silver button of the same design, but at the present time no silver buttons are available and only bronze ones can be distributed.

THE FOURTH AND FIRE

All persons will take notice that a city ordinance prohibits explosives of all kinds on the Fourth of July, and I wish to also warn everybody against the burning of colored light powders or railroad fuses. Extra precaution must be taken this year against fire and all good citizens are called upon to help in enforcing the law. Phone complaints to Central during the Fourth only.

A. M. UDELL,
City Marshal.

KEEP OUR TROUBLES AT HOME

Everybody cannot please everybody and everybody cannot see thru the same spectacles. We have our differences of opinion, and our different ideals. We may talk them over among ourselves, but let's all unite in boosting Sierra Madre at home and abroad.

This is our town and we like it. It is beautiful and healthy. There are a hundred nice things we can say about it. Our people are intelligent and refined. Our trustees are educated, experienced and honest. We can all think alike on our preference for Sierra Madre as a residence. When you reach a point where you cannot do this the town will be better off without you and there may be some other location that will meet with your unqualified approval.

Every kind work for Sierra Madre means a good ad for the best town in Southern California. Boost, don't knock. If you can't bury your hammer take it with you.

ANOTHER MUSICIAN COMES

F. C. Greissinger of Long Beach has purchased the property at 136 Carter Ave., and will move his family here in the near future.

Prof. Greissinger is a saxophone soloist with the Long Beach municipal band and also teaches a class on this mellow instrument. He is making the change of residence because himself and family are delighted with our climate and scenic effects, and will be a valuable addition to our musical and social circles. He will give instruction on the saxophone to a few pupils. In time past he has played with Sousa's Concert Band, the L. A. Symphony Orchestra, Kilties Scotch Highlanders, and did a "Solo act on the Big Time" Orpheum Circuit.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade will be held in the City Hall next Monday night. If you belong attend. If you don't belong, join.

A full attendance is desired as the question of the soldiers memorial will probably be settled.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Our spectacular opportunities for courage may be few or none at all. Our commonplace opportunities for courage start when we wake and last until we go to sleep. "The courage of the commonplace is greater than the courage of the crisis."

PLANNING THE MEALS.

Let us begin at the beginning, which is breakfast. We need follow no law except that of the tastes of our family. In these days of good food habits everybody eats everything and enjoys it, with the exception, of course, of the few unfortunates who have some personal idiosyncrasy which prohibits some well-liked food. Fruit in the morning is usually enjoyed, a dish of cereal of some kind, to be followed by a piece of toast and an egg, with a cup of coffee, a cookie or a doughnut, will be satisfactory for the average man or woman who works at light labor. For the child a cup of milk takes the place of the coffee, and a large dish of cereal with toast and egg, or simply the cereal will make a sustaining breakfast. The American breakfast, compared to the English meal, is quite a kindergarten affair. Here is a breakfast menu taken from an English cook book, for an August morning: "Bloaters on toast, collared tongue (whatever that is), hot buttered toast, marmalade, white bread and butter, brown bread, and bread and milk."

A dainty breakfast, well served, is of more value to the individual than the mere food properties served. The midday meal, or luncheon, if the heavy meals come at night, should be light and nourishing and easily digested, for a hearty meal at noon causes sluggishness and inactivity. A simple soup, or a dish of escalloped vegetable for a hot dish, a cup of tea, cocoa or milk, a little fruit and cake will be found sufficiently sustaining for that meal.

For dinner there is a wide range, depending upon the taste and the amount one may expend of energy as well as money in its preparation. Usually the people who have the most money to spend enjoy the simplest fare, for they know often at great cost what too rich and too heavy food will do to one's digestion. In these days of simple living we have cut down the dinner to three and four courses, often cutting out the soup and serving the meat dish, salad or entree in one course, then the dessert, following with the after-dinner coffee.

A nice leg of mutton, my Lucie, I pray thee have ready for me. Have it smoking and tender and juicy. For no better meat can there be.—Thackeray.

SHORT CUTS.

The progressive woman is learning to divide her hours of labor and multiply her hours of leisure for outside work in the community and for self-improvement.

Why spend two hours doing a piece of work that one hour should finish?

The woman who spends a half hour ironing a sheet that might be ironed under other things like napkins, handkerchiefs, which we are particularly abhor, is wasting golden hours that she might be using much more profitably.

The over-particular woman has no right to waste time on trifles, for her community and country need her. All the reconstruction work will not be done abroad, for we are learning to reconstruct many of our old, worn out handed down from grandmother ideas.

All housekeepers are greatly assisted by a schedule which is carefully followed as possible, though anybody who has tried it knows that no household can be run on an iron-clad rule, for things are always occurring to upset plans which are really good for us to avoid monotony. Monotony is the rust that eats out many lives.

A slate or tablet hanging on the wall with an outline of the week's meals and the daily arrangement of work will prove a wonderful time saver.

The pauses between tasks due to lack of forethought and planning will sum up into many minutes in a day's work.

A list of extras to be done will be so much happier done if we have a plan written out by which to work. Cross off each task as it is accomplished and keep the slips on file, for it is most satisfying to know the amount or number of things done in a month or a year.

He that by the plow would thrive, Himself must either hold or drive. Buy what thou hast no need of, and ere long thou shalt sell thy necessities.—Poor Richard.

WHAT TO FEED THE CHILD.

Milk is the child's first food and the one of most importance through his growing years. It behooves every mother to see that she has clean milk, free from disease and of the standard richness.

As the child grows older he needs food that has bulk on which to exercise the teeth as well as to excite the digestive juices, given in plentiful supply.

An ideal food which comes next to milk and eggs in importance is whole wheat. It may be ground, to crush the kernels, which is an advantage, or it may be cooked long and slowly making a gelatinous mass which is especially good for a breakfast and supper food for a small child. Give it top milk or cream with no sugar. There is something about the food that is so appetizing that the child rarely tires of it. In many homes where the family like the whole grains in food they use a small hand mill, grinding their own breakfast foods and cereals for breads.

Cocoa is a good drink for children, but if given too often they become too tired of it. Hot milk for drink is well liked; malted milk for a change, and different cereal coffees, when one is sure there are no coffee beans put in for flavor. Coffee and tea, no matter how much diluted with hot water, should never be given to children.

Custards, baked, steamed or boiled, of various flavors, combined with chocolate or caramel are valuable foods.

Baked apple, potatoes, scraped beef, milk toast, and cooked cereals of different kinds, if cooked for hours to soften the cellulose, are other foods of high value.

There is no dessert which is more wholesome for the child than a well baked apple. Wash and core it and bake, filling the cavity with sugar; a bit of lemon juice and butter added will improve a flavorless apple.

Kindly words, sympathizing attentions, watchfulness against wounding others, sensitiveness—these cost very little, but they are priceless in their value.

DAINTY DISHES.

Cheese is such well liked food that a variety of ways of serving it are always welcome.

Take one cream cheese and mix it with a half a pound of snappy American cheese, season with red pepper and add a bit of cream so as to make a smooth roll. Cut stuffed olives in thin slices and decorate the roll. Serve on a paper doily, passing a cheese knife when serving.

Cottage Cheese Salad.—Mix two cupsful of cottage cheese with a half cupful of shredded almonds that have been blanched, a teaspoonful of chopped chives, salt and paprika to taste. Roll in small balls and place two or three in nests of lettuce; serve with a highly seasoned boiled dressing or with a mayonnaise.

Frozen Custard.—To a quart of milk add three slightly beaten eggs, a cupful of sugar and a little salt; cook until thick, cool, then freeze to a mush, add one-fourth of a pound each of chopped walnut meats and steamed chopped figs. Finish freezing and let stand a few hours to ripen.

Waffles.—Mix and sift one and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and half a teaspoonful of soda. Separate the yolks and whites of two eggs, beat well, add a cupful of thick sour milk to the yolks and stir in the dry ingredients; then add three tablespoonfuls of melted butter after folding in the stiffly beaten whites. Bake on a well-greased waffle iron.

Supper Dish.—Take ordinary link sausages, prick them and put into a pan to fry out a little of the fat, pour off the fat and pour over the sausages a batter as follows: A cupful of milk, a pint of flour, two well-beaten eggs, and a spoonful of salt. Bake until the pudding is brown. Serve from the dish in which it was baked. This is the Yorkshire pudding batter.

Frozen Custard.—To a quart of milk add three slightly beaten eggs, a cupful of sugar and a little salt; cook until thick, cool, then freeze to a mush, add one-fourth of a pound each of chopped walnut meats and steamed chopped figs. Finish freezing and let stand a few hours to ripen.

NEW FASHIONS IN GOWNS AND COATS

Styles as They Are Reflected in the Latest Ideas of Apparel.

MANY PARIS MODES ADOPTED

Evening Coats Vie With Evening Gowns in Their Brilliance—Taffeta Favorite Fabric—Tunics in Evidence.

Fashionable cities of the United States keep their fingers on the pulse of Paris. The mood of the moment expressed on this side of the Atlantic. Every symptom is known, every fashion idea is gauged by the clothes specialists over here.

Many of these Paris modes are adopted outright because they spring from a field long fertile with all that is lovely. Many others have to be adapted to the American woman and still others created especially for her.

The wise designer, observes a prominent fashion correspondent, like the true artist, knows what is beautiful and selects it from the myriads of ideas and fabrics which are as conglomerate as a hundred daubs of paint on an artist's palette.

Out of this class of fashion creators with "the know" has arisen the American couturier, who, while keeping a watchful eye on Paris, knows how to create her own models, which rival in loveliness and perfection any importation that France may send over.

With the coming of peace the Parisienne burst into bloom. Like some rare bulb that had lain in dark hibernation awaiting the call of the spring sun, she dazzled the world. Her evening gowns could not be sufficiently brilliant in color to express her mood of joyousness.

Naturally, the American woman, atune with the same joy of victory, followed suit. Brilliance marked every gathering. Jewels were brought from their velvet boxes, and once more the American woman bloomed. The marvel was how quickly femininity was able to clothe itself in the new and brilliant raiment of joyous peace.

Taffeta Favored for Coats.

Evening coats vie with evening gowns in their brilliancy. Taffeta is the favorite fabric for these summer mantles, though baronne satin with its glimmering folds makes exquisite evening wraps. Glace silk, with two tones running in its depth, is found in many of these capelike garments. Two contrasting layers of chiffon or georgette crepe make delightfully pretty wraps and give sufficient warmth for balmy summer evenings.

These wraps are frequently yoked in the drop shoulder line and the silhouette suggests the old-fashioned dolman, which lends itself perfectly to these modern capes. Crystal tassels, or those of silver, gold and jet, trim these garments or act as ornaments on heavy strands of beads that tie the fronts of the cap together. Pearl and jet are effectively combined in this head trimming.

The collars of these wraps are sometimes made of the material. They are cut straight, made double, and are gathered and wired at the center back to give the high line reaching nearly to the crown of the head. Fur, especially white fox and skunk, is used with lovely softness on these capes when a fur collar is needed. The contrast of peltry with silk is always lovely, however inconsistent it may look in summer.

Ostrich feathers are profusely used to trim these evening capes. The

SOME DAINTY EVENING GOWNS

Metal and Beaded Nets Afford Elegant Costumes for Wear on Formal Occasions.

Never were such gleaming, glittering materials used for evening gowns. There are metal and bead embroidered nets, metal brocades, heavily spangled and jetted nets, lustrous satins and rare laces. No fabric seems too costly to put into this season's evening gown and if one cannot afford a gleaming costume, one must "go in" for diaphanous, dainty girlish effects, or do something to a simple satin or silk frock that will make it stand out with noticeable distinction among the glittering creations roundabout.

Such a trick has been tried with a black satin dinner frock, which has tulle wings at either side of the skirt and garlands of flowers attached in striking manner to skirt and bodice. This simple dance frock is interesting and it has the new, perfectly flat back, with a train falling from shoulder to floor. Over this train of blue and silver brocade floats a light drapery of graceful fronds of ostrich make the ideal trimming for the summer wraps. Fringe is seen on these garments, but not so much as formerly.

A lovely evening wrap is made of geranium pink taffeta. A long cape falls loosely over the shoulders, but is cut to wrap snugly around the ankles, giving the narrow silhouette. Over this cape fall two long, graceful overcapes that hang in points at the back. These points are weighted with giant tassels of pink and pearl beads that dangle from a calyx of jet. Two long strands of pink and pearl beads start from the front under the collar and meet between the shoulders in a head cabochon. A single strand then hangs from this ornament and ends with a tassel on line with the other two.

Tunics characterize evening gowns. This is the natural outcome of the narrow line around the feet. The short tunic, quite full or knife plaited, is used with delightful effect on dance frocks.

A beautiful black and gold evening gown is taken out of all sombreness by the brilliancy of its trimming. The bodice is black tulle, sleeveless, as most evening gowns are.

The tunic of this gown is serpentine. It is made of black lace flecked with gold. Around the edge of this lace run three bands of vividly contrasting colors, blue, purple and emerald green.

Gown of White Taffeta With Design of Pink Roses.

Vagaries of Tunics.

A spiral tunic that describes a double line is the distinctive mark of an evening dress which is chiffon in the shade of rose that carries a violet tone in its threads. This very unusual shade is combined with turquoise blue. The bodice is made of rose chiffon with a surplice of flesh pink. A tunic of rose chiffon overlaps another of turquoise blue. This same idea is repeated in the sleeves, where turquoise blue shows beneath the rose sleeve which is cut very short. Tiny rows of silver gauze ribbon run on both tunics and tie the sleeves.

The girdle of this varicolored gown is rose chiffon and it is strapped with two geranium pink ribbons and one of turquoise blue, the center line being blue. These ribbons tie at the left side and the three ends hang in varied lengths.

The skirt of this frock reaches to the ankles and is draped in a slightly bias line to conform to the swirl of the tunics.

black lace, and the same lace is draped over the arms and falls in scarf ends at the front.

Cleaning a White Plume.

Here are several ways of cleaning a soiled white plume, according to a correspondent: (1) Bury the feather in flour, or magnesite scraped from a block, and leave it for 24 hours; then shake out. Repeat as needed, rubbing gently the more soiled spots. (2) Dip the feather in clean benzine, soaking it up and down until clean. Dry in the air. Do not use benzine in room with flame. (3) Wash the feather in a little weak suds of white soap and lukewarm water. If very soiled, spread wet on a platter or tray and brush gently with nail brush.

The Short Sleeve Vogue.

A suit with sleeves not quite full length suggests the coming vogue for short sleeves in all garments.

Cream Stockings in Paris.

Cream is the fashionable spring color for stockings in Paris this season instead of gray.

BOY SCOUTS

BOSTON FOR THE BOY SCOUTS

A letter to the editor of The Boston Transcript says in part:

"Everybody sees that we are entering on an era of serious readjustments in wages and prices, and that in very many cases lack of employment for a time and clashes of opinion between employers and employed will be inevitable. Unless we adopt every reasonable means to promote right understanding and good feeling between our various groups—unless we keep to the front the importance of hearty co-operation—much hard feeling is sure to be generated, and we need only to read the newspapers to be warned of the possible results.

"We cannot expect a complete safeguard against this danger, but the public is coming to recognize that the boy scout movement gives considerable protection, because it greatly promotes mutual understanding and good feelings. It not only stimulates properly the boys enlisted in its ranks and so sets good fashion for all boys, but it leads the parents and many friends of the scouts to perceive how greatly their interests are cared for by the community."

The letter was signed by Frank W. Remick, Allen Curtis, Nathaniel H. Stone, Charles Jackson, Charles W. Elliot, I. Tucker Bur, A. Lawrence Lowell, Charles Almy, John R. Macomber, and Henry B. Day.

ANTHONY FIALA IS SCOUT.

Maj. Anthony Fiala, at present connected with the experimental department of the Springfield armory, has recently been elected boy scout commissioner by the local scout council of that Massachusetts city.

Major Fiala is a veteran of the Spanish war. He went to the north arctic regions as a scientific expert in the Baldwin-Ziegler expedition. From 1903 to 1905 he was in command of the second Ziegler expedition, which discovered new islands and waterways in the archipelago of Franz Joseph.

Fiala accompanied Colonel Roosevelt on his trip of exploration in Brazil, and personally prospected many of the unmapped rivers.

His scouting duties include an active interest in the scoutmasters' training class and the chairmanship of the local committee on camping.

K. OF C. AND THE SCOUTS.

The organ of the Catholic boys' high school, "Kenrick," of St. Louis, gives special prominence to the work of the Boy Scouts of America, and states that scouting has received the highest encomiums from the Catholic hierarchy, notably from Cardinal O'Connell and the late Cardinal Farley, also the archbishops of Philadelphia and San Francisco.

"For this reason," continues the article, "many Catholic troops have been organized throughout the United States."

The boy scouts of the St. Louis district have a Catholic scout commissioner, Thomas J. Lyster, who in 1914 as scoutmaster organized the first Catholic troop in St. Louis under the supervision of the Knights of Columbus.

SCOUT TRAINING SAVED LIFE.

His knowledge of first aid learned while a boy scout saved the life of Firman Holland, a son of the assistant postmaster at Burlington, N. J., when wounded in war, according to a letter he wrote home.

BOY SCOUT DOINGS.

Putting a roof on a poor widow's house and furnishing her with coal for the winter, was reported by Brookfield Center (Conn.) boy scouts as their "good turns."

Each Milwaukee troop of scouts will take care of those sidewalks in the troop's vicinity that face empty lots. In many cases the walks are not cleaned during the winter months. During the summer months the scouts may see that no rubbish is allowed to accumulate in the vacant lots.

FED HIMSELF TO THE HORSE

Unpleasant Few Minutes for Small Boy Who Tumbled Down Chute With the Hay.

One morning, when little Hal Perry was doing chores in his father's barn, he met with an accident that placed him in a peculiarly helpless position. He had made his way to the left loft to get down fodder for the stock. In climbing over the hay he slipped and fell, feet foremost, into one of the chutes. When he came to a stop his bare feet extended to the manger where Jim, the only bad-tempered horse in the barn, was hungrily seizing mouthfuls of the fodder.

The boy screamed for help, but no one heard him, for the house was at some distance, and his voice was muffled. There was nothing that offered a hold; the chute had been made smooth in order that the hay might slide through easily. He tried to gain a purchase by thrusting outward with his elbows, so that he might lift his feet, but it was of no use; he could not even kick. The horse, in pulling away the fodder, nipped at his toes.

"Whon! Stop that!" yelled the boy. But the horse naturally continued to eat his breakfast, and more than once nipped—as if purposely—Hal's legs and toes.

After a few minutes the farmer, providentially entered the building and heard his son sobbing and calling, "Father, come quick! Jim is eating me."

"Where are you?" shouted the farmer.

"In the chute,"

"Back, Jim!" roared the man; and the horse obeyed.

Mr. Perry hastily turned Jim loose in the yard, and, seizing a rope, leaped upstairs. Making a noise, "let it down to the small boy, will you," he let it under his arms, and ceased to cry as he felt himself being drawn safely up.—Youth's Companion.

Little Nell.

Little Nell, or Netty Trent, is one of the outstanding characters in Dickens' novel, "The Old Curiosity Shop," and one of the sweetest yet most pathetic characters in all of Dickens' books. Little Nell is a sweet, innocent, loving child of fourteen years, brought up by her old miserly grandfather, who gambled away all his money. Her days were monotonous and without youthful companionship; her evenings gloomy and solitary. The grandfather, being wholly ruined by gambling, the two went forth as beggars and ultimately settled down in a cottage adjoining a country churchyard. Here Nell died and the old grandfather soon afterwards was found dead upon her grave.

Keeping Cider Sweet.

To keep cider sweet place in each barrel immediately on making, mustard, four ounces; salt, one ounce, and ground chalk, one ounce. Shake well. Or cider may be preserved sweet by canning in airtight cans after the manner of preserving fruit. The liquid should be first settled and racked off from the dregs, but fermentation must not be allowed to commence before canning or it will not keep.

A Thing o' Beauty.

Vincent Barnard, of Pennsylvania, says that a friend of his, on observing the bird (an oriole) beginning to build, hung out near the prospective nest skeins of many-colored zephyr yarn, which the eager bird readily appropriated. He managed it so that the birds used nearly equal quantities of various high, bright colors, writes John Burroughs, in "Wake Robin." The nest was made unusually deep and capacious, and it may be questioned if such a thing of beauty was ever before woven by the building of a bird.

"CALLUS CORNS" LIFT RIGHT OFF

Apply a few drops of "Freezone"—No pain!

Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corns, calluses and "hard skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off.

When Freezone removes corns from the toes or calluses from the bottom of feet, the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

WOLVES OF THE SEA

By RANDALL PARRISH

Carlyle Sees One Chance—and Takes It.

Synopsis — Geoffrey Carlyle, master of sailing ships at twenty-six, is sentenced to 20 years' servitude in the American colonies for participation in the Monmouth rebellion in England. Among the passengers on board the ship on which he is sent across are Roger Fairfax, wealthy Maryland planter; his niece, Dorothy Fairfax, and Lieutenant Sanchez, a Spaniard, who became acquainted with the Fairfaxes in London. Carlyle meets Dorothy, who informs him her uncle has bought his services. Sanchez shows himself an enemy of Carlyle. The Fairfax party, now on its own sloop in the Chesapeake bay, encounters a mysterious bark, the Namur of Rotterdam. Carlyle discovers that Sanchez is "Black Sanchez," planning to steal the Fairfax gold and abduct Dorothy. He fights Sanchez and leaves him for dead. In a battle with Sanchez' followers, however, he is overpowered and thrown into the bay.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued.

The two must have hung in silence over the rail staring down. I dared not advance my head to look, nor even move a muscle of my body in the water.

"How came you aft here?" "Because that fellow leaped the rail from the wharf. I saw him, and we met at the wheel."

"From the wharf, you say? He was not aboard, then? Santa Maria! I know not what that may mean. Yet what difference, so he be dead. Anderson, Mendez, throw that carrion overboard—no, bullies, never mind; let them lie where they are, and sink an anger in the sloop's bottom. What is that out yonder, Cochose?" "A small boat, senior—a dory, I make it."

"Cut the rope and send it adrift. Now come along with me."

The darker loom of the sloop vanished slowly, as the slight current sweeping about the end of the wharf drifted the released boat to which I clung outward into the bay. There was scarcely a ripple to the sea, and yet I felt that the boat was steadily drifting out into deep water. I was still strangely weak, barely able to retain my grasp. Finally I mustered every ounce of remaining energy in one supreme effort and succeeded in dragging my body up out of water over the boat's stern, sinking helplessly forward into the bottom. The moment this was accomplished every sense deserted me, and I lay there motionless, totally unconscious.

I shall never know how long I remained thus. Yet this time could not have been great. As though awakening from sleep a faint consciousness returned. Then the sharp pain of my wounds, accentuated by the sting of salt water, brought me swift realization of where I was and the circumstances bringing me there. I had evidently lost considerable blood, yet this had already ceased to flow, and a very slight examination served to convince me that the knife slashes were none of them serious. My other injuries were merely bruises to add to my discomfort—the result of blows dealt me by Sanchez and Cochose, aggravated by the bearlike hug of the giant negro. Indeed, I awoke to the discovery that I was far from being a dead man; and, inspired by this knowledge, the various incidents of the night flashed swiftly back into my mind.

No gleam of light appeared in any direction; no sound echoed across the dark waste of water. It was clearly impossible for me to attempt any return to the wharf through the impenetrable black curtain which shut me in. What, then, could I do? What might I still hope to accomplish? Those fellows had swept the sloop clean, and had doubtless long ago scuttled it. They would suddenly find themselves leaderless, unguided. Would that suffice to stop them? Would the discovery of his body halt his followers and send them rushing back to their boat, eager to get safely away? This did not seem likely. Estada knew of my boarding the sloop from the wharf, and would at once connect the fact of my being ashore with the killing of Sanchez. This would satisfy him there was no further danger. Besides, these were not men to flee in panic. Surely not with that ruffian Estada yet alive to lead them, and the knowledge that fifty thousand pounds was yonder in that unguarded house, with no one to protect the treasure but two old men asleep, and the women. The women!—Dorothy! What would become of her? Into whose hands would she fall in that foul division of spoils? Estada's? And I, afloated and helpless in this boat, what could I do?

CHAPTER IX.

A Swim to the Namur.

All was black, hopeless; with head buried in my hands I sat on a thwart, dazed. Before me, pleading, expressive of agonized despair, arose the sweet face of Dorothy Fairfax. No doubt by this time all was over—the dead body of Sanchez discovered, the projected attack on the house carried out, the two old men left behind, either dead or severely wounded, and the girl borne off a helpless prisoner. Ay, but this I knew; there was only one place to which the villains might flee with their booty—the Namur of Rotterdam. Only on those decks and well at sea would they be safe or able to enjoy their spoils. The thought came to me in sudden revelation—why not? Was not here a chance even yet to foil them? With Sanchez dead no man aboard that pirate craft could recognize me. I felt assured of this. I had fought the giant negro in the dark; he could not, during that fierce encounter, have distinguished my features any more clearly than I had his own. There was no one else to fear. If only I might once succeed in getting safely aboard, slightly disguised, perhaps, and mingle unnoticed among the crew, the chances were not bad for me to pass undetected. Such ships carried large crews and were constantly changing in personnel. A strange face appearing among them need not arouse undue suspicion. And I felt convinced I could locate the Namur. But could I hope to attain the ship in advance of the returning party of raiders? God helping me, I would try! My brain throbbed with fresh resolution—the call to action.

There were oars in the boat. I shipped the useless rudder inboard and chose my course from the stars. My boat had drifted considerably farther out into the bay than I had supposed, and it required a good half hour of steady toil at the oars before I sighted ahead of me the darker outlines of the shore. At first I could identify nothing, but finally there suddenly arose, clearly defined, the gaunt limbs of a dead tree, bearing a faint resemblance to a gigantic cross, that had been pointed out on the sloop. This peculiar mark was at the extremity of the first headland lying north of the point itself, and consequently a straight course across the bay would land me within five hundred yards of where the Namur had last been at anchor.

To a degree my immediate plan of action had been definitely mapped out within my own mind while toiling at the oars. I would beach my dory and strike out on foot directly across the narrow neck of land. The Namur was not so far out from shore as to make swimming to her a dangerous feat, and I could approach and board her with far less chance of discovery in that manner than by the use of a boat. The greater danger would come after I had attained the deck, wet to the skin. The sharp bow of the dory ran up on the soft sand of the beach, and I stepped ashore.

Then there came to me the first real consciousness of the reckless nature of this adventure. As I faced them the probabilities there scarcely seemed one chance in a hundred. And yet I must admit there was the one chance; and in no other action could I perceive even that much encouragement. If Dorothy Fairfax was already in the hands of these men, then my only opportunity for serving her lay in my being close at hand. No alternative presented itself; no other effort could be effective. It was already too late to attempt the organization of a rescue party. No, the only choice left was for me either to accompany the girl or else abandon her entirely to her captors. I must either face the possibility of discovery and capture, which as surely meant torture and death, or otherwise play the coward and remain impotently behind. So I drove the temptation to falter away and strode on up the bank into the black shadow of the trees.

I found extremely hard walking as I advanced through tangled underbrush. Fortunately the distance was even shorter than I had anticipated. It was not until after I had advanced cautiously into the water and then stooped low to thus gain clearer vision along the surface that I succeeded in locating the vessel sought. Even then the Namur appeared only as a mere shadow, without so much as a light showing aboard, yet apparently anchored in the same position as when we had swept past the previous afternoon. I waded straight out through the lines of surf, until all excepting the head became completely submerged. If I were to reach the bark at all this was the one opportunity.

I stood there, resisting the undertow tugging at my limbs and barely able to retain my footing, intent upon my purpose. Full strength had come back to my muscles and my head was again clear. With strong, silent strokes I swam forward, directly breasting the force of the incoming sea, yet making fair progress. Some unconsidered current must have swept me to the right, for, when the outlines of the bark again became dimly visible through the night I found myself well to starboard of the vessel. Stroking well under water and with only my eyes exposed above the surface, I changed my course to the left and slowly and cautiously drew in toward the starboard bow. A few moments later, unperceived from above, and protected from observation by the bulge of the overhang and density of the shadow, my hands clung to the anchor hawser, my mind busy in devising some means for attaining the deck.

CHAPTER X.

On the Deck of the Namur.

It was here that fortune favored me, strengthening my decision and yielding a fresh courage to persevere. Forking out directly over where I clung desperately to the wet hawser, my eyes were able to trace the bowsprit, the rather loosely furled up jib flapping ragged edges in the gusts of wind. Suddenly, as I stared upward, I became aware that two men were working their way out along the footropes, and, as they reached a point almost directly over my head, became busily engaged in tightening the gaskets to better secure the loosening sail. The foot of one slipped, and he hung dangling, giving vent to a stiff English oath before he succeeded in hauling himself back to safety. The other indulged in a chuckling laugh, yet he was careful not to speak loudly.

"Had one drink too many, Tom?" he asked. "That will pay yer fer finishin' the bottle an' never givin' me another sup."

"You, h—!! Yer hed the fu'st ov it. That's no sorter luck yer don't git yer fair share of, Bill Haines—trust yer fer that. What I ain't got straight yet is whar the stuff cum from so easy."

"That was part o' the luck, Tom. Did yer git eyes on that new feller Manuel Estevan brought back with him in the boat?"

"The one you and Jose carried aboard?"

"He's the lad. That wa'n't nuthin' the matter with the cove, 'cept he was dead drunk. We was waitin' on the beach fer Estevan, an' three fellers he hed taken along with him inter town ter cum back—the nigger, Jose an' me—when this yere chap hove 'longside. He never hailed us, ner nuthin'; just elum over into the boat, an' lay down. I shook him, an' kicked him, but it wa'n't no use; so we just left him lie ther fer Manuel ter say what wus ter be done with him. Only Jose he went through his pockets an' found three bottles o' rum. We took a few drinks an' hid what wus left in the boat locker."

"So thet's how yer got it! Who wus the party?"

"Thet's more'n I'll ever tell yer. I never got no sight o' him, 'cept in the dark. 'Bout all I know is he wus white, an' likely a sailor. Enyhow, when Manuel got back he told us to haul the lad forrard out o' the way, an' fetch him along. So we pulled out with the feller cuddled up in the bow."

"I never seed nuthin' more of him after he was hauled aboard. What become o' the lad?"

Once on board the Namur, Carlyle knows he may have a chance to aid Dorothy. It is a desperate chance, but he is willing to take it. But how to get aboard without being seen? Can he avoid detection which will mean certain death?

SEAPORT for POLAND

One of Danzig's Finest Streets.

DANZIG, which by the peace treaty becomes an internationalized city and the outlet for Poland to the Baltic, is thus described in a bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society:

Picture a far north Venice, cut through with streams and canals, equipped also with a sort of irrigation system to flood the country for miles about, not for cultivation but for defense; a city of typical Philadelphia streets, only with those long rows of stoops made of stone and highly decorated and jutting into the roadway instead of on the sidewalks, and you catch but a glimpse of the composite Danzig.

As a city of churches Danzig vies with Brooklyn; its crooked, winding streets suggest those Boston thoroughfares of cowpath derivation; and were its grain warehouses more modern the visitor might believe himself in Minneapolis—that is he might until he heard their names—such as Golden Pelican, Little Ship, Gray Goose and Milk Maid—then he might look about for some popular resorts of New York's Greenwich village.

In no other German city is medieval architecture to be found in such variety and preservation as in Danzig. Conspicuous both in Polish and German history, Danzig was one of the four principal centers of the Hanseatic league, while not far up the Vistula is Marienburg, capital of the Teutonic Order of Knights, which flourished in Danzig.

Ancient Art Works Intact.

Physically, Danzig escaped many effects of the reformation. Even in her famous St. Mary's church, one of the largest Protestant edifices in the world, covering an area as great as the Cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris, are to be found reliquaries and manuscripts, embroideries of Roman, Byzantine and Gothic designs, treasures in precious metals, stones and ivories, and a noted collection of vestments. Among its art works is the famous "Last Judgment" of Hans Mealing. In appearance almost as much like a fortress as a church, bringing to mind Luther's militant hymn "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," the church has been called "one of the most German things in Germany." In many ways it suggests the Prussian militarist spirit. From the vaulting, for example, projects one of Napoleon's cannon balls.

But the Danzig visitor needs no indirect intimation of militarism. The city was one of the most strongly fortified places in the now shattered German empire. To the east and south of the city older defenses were supplemented in recent years by a score of bastions. Along the Vistula, on which the city lies, to its mouth at Neufahrwasser, four miles away, stretches a line of forts. In addition three sides of the town could be inundated by the garrison.

Quaint House Architecture.

Streets are lined with ornate old houses of the Hanseatic period, crowned with high gables, often profusely ornamented. Balconies overhang the streets and in spite of the impediment they offer to traffic, many of the elevated stone porches still remain. Gargoyles grin from ancient walls. Vistas abound. There are many old water gates. One of these, the Hobe Tor, is fashioned after a Roman arch. Another, the Kran Thor, with each successive story projecting farther than the one below, looks like the leaning tower of Pisa.

Danzig's beginnings are not known. Poland, Denmark, Pomerania and Brandenburg held it at various early times. In the fourteenth century it came under the sway of the Teutonic knights. Not long afterward it became one of the four centers of the Hanseatic league. With the decline of the league it allied itself with Poland, retaining most of its rights as a free city. It had a flag derived from the red and white emblem of the league, employing the red as a field upon which were three gold crowns, arranged vertically.

Separation From Poland.

Russians and Saxons took the city and the score or more neighboring villages it governed in 1734. When Poland was partitioned, four years before the American colonists signed the Declaration of Independence, Danzig was separated from Poland and 21 years later Prussia gained possession of it. Again made a free city by Napoleon, it passed once more to Poland; then back to Prussia in 1814.

Danzig became the capital of West Prussia. Government and private docks were located there. Shipbuilding and the making of munitions were introduced and amber, beer and liquors were other products. Its granaries, built on an island, were erected when it was the principal grain shipping port for Poland and Silesia.

Danzig is a little farther by rail northeast of Berlin than Boston is from New York. Its population in 1910 was about that of Columbus, O.

WELL EQUIPPED BY NATURE

Simple Explanation of Remarkable Sense of Hearing That Is Possessed by the Owl.

It is held by naturalists that in order to capture its prey the owl must depend even more upon its sense of hearing than upon its sense of sight. The tufts of feathers that distinguish the short-eared and the long-eared owls are, of course, no more ears than they are horns. The true ear of the owl is a most remarkable organ.

The facial disk of feathers that gives the owl its characteristic appearance serves as a kind of sounding-board or ear-trumpet to concentrate the slightest sounds and to transmit them to the orifice of the true ear, concealed in the small feathers behind the eye. Even in the barn owl, which possesses the least complicated arrangement of this kind, the orifice of the ear is covered by a remarkable flap of the skin, while in the other species there are striking differences in the size and shape of this orifice and its covering flap on the two sides of the head.

The exact way in which owls utilize this elaborately specialized apparatus has still to be discovered.

Water in Wood.

All wood contains more or less water; even the driest wood known contains two or three pounds of water to every 100 pounds of weight. Absolutely dry wood is unknown, for the heat needed to obtain it would dissolve the wood and convert it into gas and charcoal.

A Swiss authority on the characteristics of wood believes that a sufficiently powerful and perfect microscope would show that the ultimate wood cell is composed of crystals like grains of sugar or salt and that thin films of water hold the crystals apart, yet bind them into a mass.

A good microscope shows the wood cell and reveals its spiral bandages and its openings and cavities, but no instrument yet made reveals the ultimate crystals that, as many believe, do exist and that would explain why water cannot be expelled from wood without destroying the wood itself.—New York Sun.

Justice to Franklin.

Philadelphians love to set forth the fact that there were written two of the most notable literary achievements of the world, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, both of them remarkable for fine literary quality, for precision of statement, for lucid presentation of facts, for logical arrangement. But it is possible, so it has been unkindly suggested, that they do not always remember that neither of these important productions was written by a Philadelphian. But to anyone who may make a suggestion it may with justice be said that the "Autobiography" of Franklin, one of the few great autobiographies of the world, was written by a Philadelphian, and also his "Poor Richard," and other world-famous works.

No Social Barriers in Turkey.

To those unfamiliar with Turkish customs it may seem strange that Talaik Pasha, who has just resigned the highest dignity in the Ottoman empire, should have been earning his living only a few years ago as an obscure telegraph clerk. Yet such big jumps are perhaps easier in Turkey than in any other country. For although the Ottoman Turks often show the utmost contempt for the numerous subject races that help to make up the Turkish empire, they recognize no social barriers among themselves. In the eyes of the sultan all are equal. Thus it may easily happen that, given the necessary ability, even an emancipated Ottoman slave may become grand vizier, and perhaps marry into the sultan's own family.

MARRIED

MEDLEY-OLSEN

Wednesday morning Benjamin Medley and Miss Mabel Olsen were quietly married at Los Angeles. After the ceremony the young people went to the beach for a week, where they will enjoy their honeymoon.

This event has been expected and talked of for some time, in fact ever since the groom returned from the service with his honorable discharge, and their young friends had planned to give them a noisy "reception" when the event occurred, but Ben had learned to steal a march and put the knowledge to practical use in this instance.

These popular young people are both well known, the bride having been born and raised in Sierra Madre.
Our readers will all join the News in wishing them happiness and prosperity forever. They will be at home to their friends after July 20, in their new home, 69 Suffolk Ave.

HARRISON-SUMNER

William J. Harrison of Hollywood and Miss Alberta Somner of this place were married in Los Angeles, Thursday, June 26.

The bride is a popular member of our young set and a graduate from our grammar school, and the groom is a progressive young business man of Hollywood, engaged in the automobile business.

The News extends congratulations and wishes them a long and happy life. They will make their home at Hollywood.

LATTIN-JACQUESS

Miss Pauline Jacquess was married to Mr. Herbert Lattin Monday evening. Miss Jacquess is the granddaughter of J. T. Railsbach of Sierra Madre Canyon. Mr. Lattin is working for Uncle Sam at Mares Island.
The young couple started immediately for their new home in Vallejo, Cal.

ENFORCED VACATION

Rev. Chas. C. Wilson, who has been suffering from a partial physical breakdown the past few weeks as a result of overwork, has just undergone a thorough examination by a Los Angeles specialist which revealed that Mr. Wilson is not suffering from any serious organic trouble requiring an operation, but is in a general condition of lowered physical resistance.
Accordingly the doctor has prescribed six weeks of complete rest in bed on an exclusive milk diet, in order to increase his weight materially, his strength and general resistance.

The first two weeks of the treatment will be spent in the Hospital of the Good Samaritan of Los Angeles, where he will be under the daily surveillance of the doctor.

During Mr. Wilson's absence his pulpit will be supplied every Sunday morning by Rev. George W. Woodbury of Alhambra, Cal. Dr. Woodbury is from Boston, Mass., and was a college friend of Mr. Wilson's. He is a graduate of Hiram College, Union Seminary, N. Y., and Hartford Seminary, Conn. As a specialist in religious psychology, he has been much in demand as a lecturer on religious education at various institutes and conventions.

LECTURE ON HEALTH

Herbert Chapman of the Mountain Glen Healthatorium delivered a lecture on health to a fair sized audience at the Woman's Club House Monday night. He also threw on the screen interesting pictures of Australia and New Zealand.

The speaker depreciated the value of the meat diet and recommended vegetables as more nutritious and healthful. The audience expressed its appreciation by generous applause on several occasions.

DIED

Morris Cohen, Saturday, June 21,
Funeral was held Sunday at Allen
T. Gay's undertaking parlors. Remains were interred in the Jewish cemetery at Los Angeles.

Deceased came here some two years ago for his health and was apparently improving steadily until an unusual exertion caused a hemorrhage, from which he never recovered. The bereaved widow has gone to Los Angeles to make her home.

ranch Monday at the age of 29 and was buried there with ceremony.

Rey El won the American Derby and several other great races, winning in prizes and purses more than $250,000. He was the special pride of his late owner, E. J. Baldwin, and was prized and loved by his daughter, an appropriate burial on the old home place just south of town.

EDITORS JUNKETED

We attended a part of the editorial

ATTENTION TO EARTH ROADS

Authority on Highway Construction Likes Concrete, but Favors More Care of Lanes.

"More attention has got to be paid to the earth roads if the coming bond elections are to go over," This is the opinion of E. L. Stevens, inventor and road expert. Mr. Stevens is, perhaps, one of the most unique characters in the road-building world. A graduate civil engineer, he felt the tremendous need for the perfection and development of the road system of America. He stepped out from the promising channels of the regular engineering profession and went down almost below the level of ordinary men to study road building, says Rocky Mountain News. He has made road building and maintenance his life work and is now, probably, as well qualified as any man to tell the methods for the proper up-building of the nation's highway system.

Sand-Clay Road Well Cared For.

For a number of years Mr. Stevens has been highway commissioner for the Estes Park highway. This piece of road work in itself is a testimony to his ideals. He is also the inventor of the Stevens improved road drag, one of the simplest and most efficient road machines on the American market.

Mr. Stevens believes in concrete highways and prepared boulevards, but he also believes that the earth road, which comprises more than 80 per cent of the country's highways, is of no less importance. "A concrete highway isn't going to do a farmer much good if he has got to haul his load three miles through hub-deep mud before he gets to it," is Mr. Stevens' attitude.

The farmer is the man who is going to pay for most of the country roads, and although concrete roads are needed where the traffic is sufficiently heavy the earth roads that feed the concrete road must be kept up.

As an inventor of road machinery, a road engineer, a road supervisor and a road worker for his practicalities and the life dream of better roads as his idealism, Mr. Stevens is ably qualified to judge highway problems.

UTAH TO SPEND $8,000,000

Part of Money Is to Be Spent for Improvements on Arrowhead Trail to California.

The state of Utah has decided to spend about $8,000,000 on roads in the next two years, with an expenditure this year of about $2,000,000. Some of the Utah millions, which are made up of state and federal funds, are going to be used on the development of the Arrowhead trail, which is tributary to all parts of southern California, from San Diego and Imperial valley on the south to Fresno and San Luis Obispo on the north.

$300,000,000 FOR HIGHWAYS

Sum Which If Capitalized at 5 Per Cent Would Represent Investment of $6,000,000,000.

Government road officials estimate that road construction and maintenance in the United States involve an annual outlay of over $300,000,000, a sum which, if capitalized at 5 per cent, would represent an investment of $6,000,000,000. There has never been a nation-wide traffic census to show either the direction or volume of traffic over these highways.

Roads Must Be Linked Up.

If we are to keep costs down, our highways must be linked up and there must be through trunk lines provided to which feeders can be built.

Lower Hauling Costs.

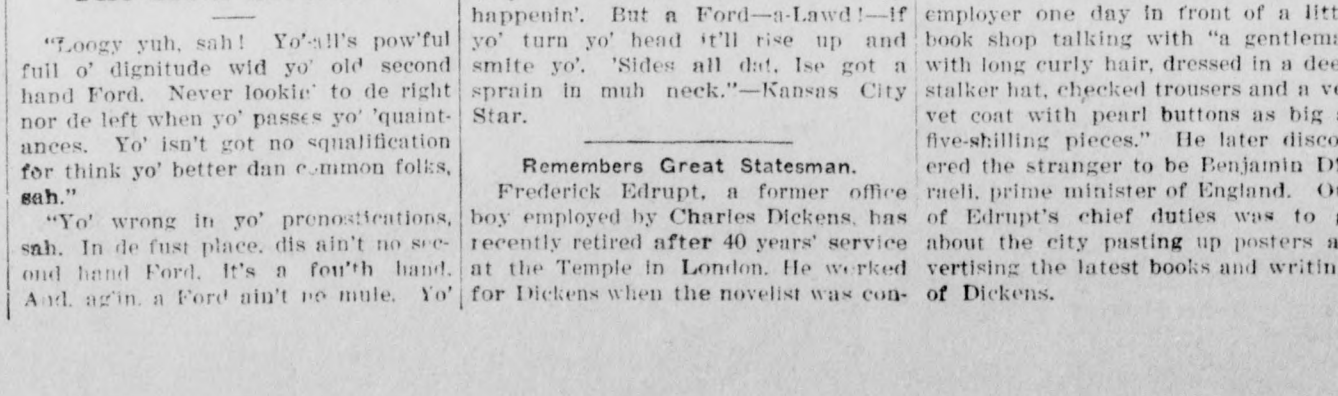

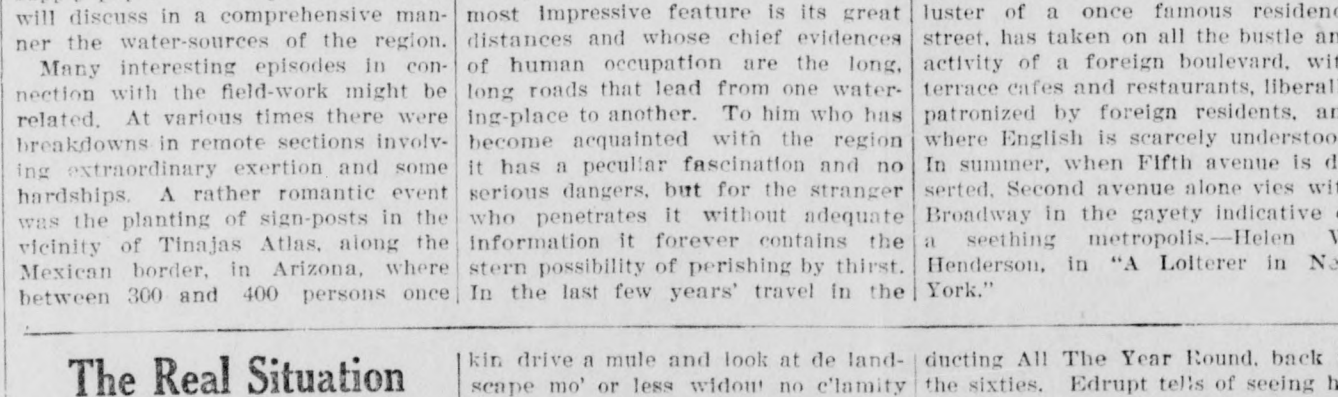

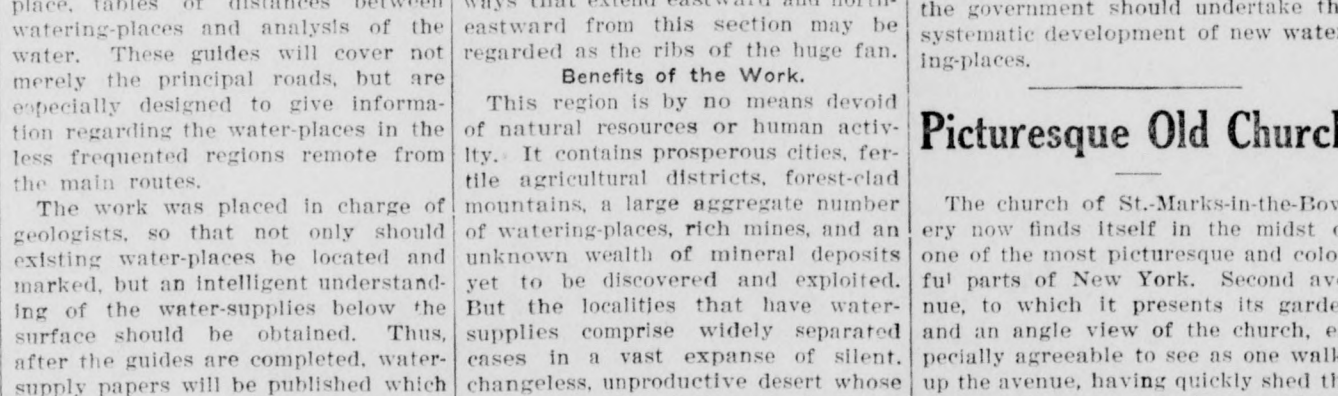

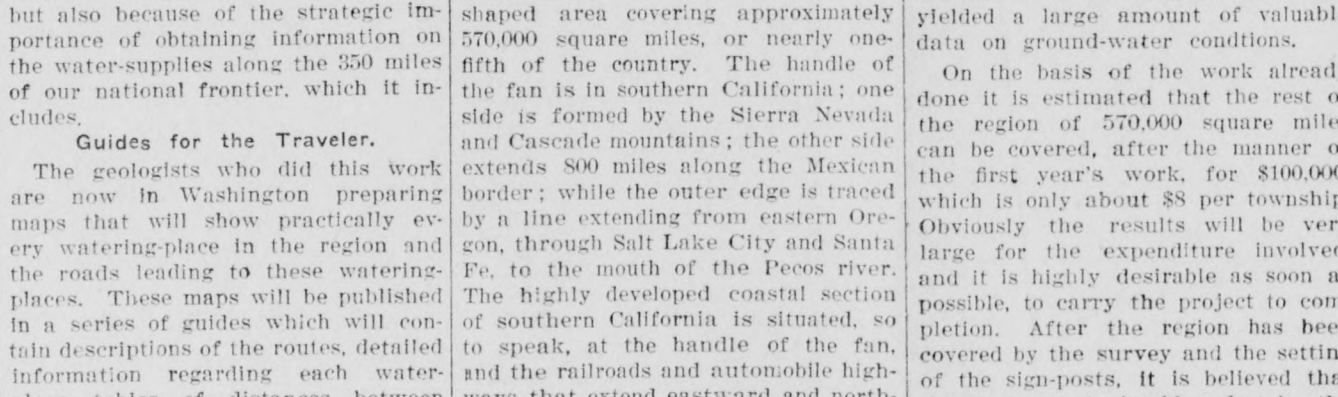

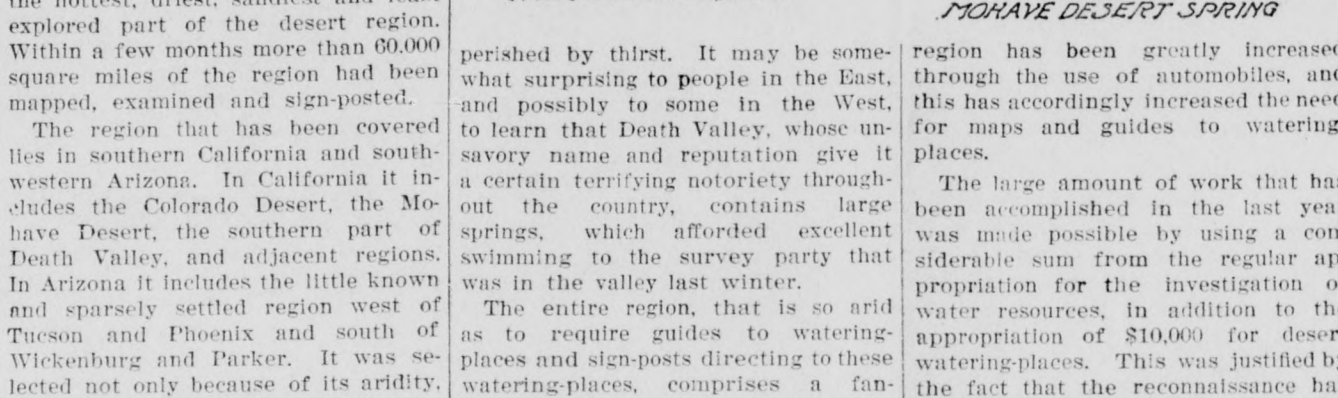

Hauling costs are lowered by good roads because the size of the load is limited by the worst spot in the road.

One of Major Activities.

Road building will shortly become one of the major activities of our government.

Remembers Great Statesman.

Frederick Edrupt, a former office boy employed by Charles Dickens, has recently retired after 40 years' service at the Temple in London. He worked for Dickens when the novelist was conducting All The Year Round, back in the sixties. Edrupt tells of seeing his employer one day in front of a little book shop talking with "a gentleman with long curly hair, dressed in a deer-stalker hat, checked trousers and a velvet coat with pearl buttons as big as five-shilling pieces." He later discovered the stranger to be Benjamin Disraeli, prime minister of England. One of Edrupt's chief duties was to go about the city pasting up posters advertising the latest books and writings of Dickens.

Good Advice.

"I am to make my first public speech tomorrow night. What would you advise me to do?" asked the young man of an old-time after-dinner speaker.

"Are you fond of your wife and children?" asked the old-timer.

"Yes, very."

"Like your home?"

"Very much."

"Do you enjoy having an occasional evening at home with your wife and kiddies?"

"I certainly do."

"Well then take my advice. Make that speech of your's tomorrow as bad as you possibly can. Make it so bad that they'll never ask you to speak in public again, and live in peace and contentment the remainder of your life."

Why the Changed Phrase.

Bonita had been taught to say, "Excuse me, please," on leaving the table before others. One day she astonished mamma by remarking, "Please half excuse me."

"Why, what do you mean?" asked her mother.

"I'm only half through eating, of course," snapped Bonita indignantly; "I'm coming back!"

Protest From the Target.

The Manager—"There'll be a big crowd today. The soldiers and sailors are to be admitted free."

The Umpire—"Aw, nix, nix! Have a heart. Let in the gobs, but keep out the doughboys. Those guys are the champion grenade throwers of the army, and every one'll have a pop bottle."

Ancient Precautions.

"We'll have this friendly agreement of ours carved upon a monument of stone," said one ancient king.

"So that all the public can read it," added the other.

"Not only that. It will make it impossible to treat it as a scrap of paper."

The spring poet has declared war, and is now firing blank verse at the editor.

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Start treatment at once. Sold at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

A Liberal Helping.

The Wyn-Jenkins were giving a little dinner party. Pa Wyn-Jenkins was carving a fowl. It was older than it looked, and the knife refusing to do its bit, the bird shot into the silken lap of the principal guest.

Mrs. Wyn-Jenkins went pale, but her husband never lost his sang-froid.

"I believe," he said to the guest, recapturing the bird, "that I've helped you to too much. Allow me to take back a little."

"Them gu'n' houses at the train'n' camps is shun doin' a gran' work, jes' like the Red Cross," observed Cindy, the colored landlady. "They saved mah boy Duke's life."

"How is that, Cindy?" queried her employer.

"I dunno how they done it. Only he wrote me a postal card sayin' if he hadn't got ten days in one of 'em he'd a' been a corp."

Ominous Intimation.

"When I marry I will treat my wife with consideration, but I expect to be master in my own house."

"Of course, you do. We all begin life with great expectations."

Picturesque Old Church

The church of St. Marks-in-the-Bowery now finds itself in the midst of one of the most picturesque and colorful parts of New York. Second avenue, to which it presents its garden and an angle view of the church, especially agreeable to see as one walks up the avenue, having quickly shed the luster of a once famous residence street, has taken on all the bustle and activity of a foreign boulevard, with terrace cafes and restaurants, liberally patronized by foreign residents, and where English is scarcely understood. In summer, when Fifth avenue is deserted, Second avenue alone vies with Broadway in the gayety indicative of a seething metropolis.—Helen W. Henderson, in "A Litterer in New York."

THIS WEEK, NERVOUS MOTHER

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sickly most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which added to my weak condition kept me worrying most of the time—and he said if I could not stop that, I could not get well. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my husband wanted me to try it. I took it for a week and felt a little better. I kept it up for three months, and I feel fine and can eat anything now without distress or nervousness."—Mrs. J. WORTHLINE, 2842 North Taylor St., Philadelphia Pa.

The majority of mothers nowadays overdo, there are so many demands upon their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down, nervous condition with headaches, backache, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop. It is at such periods in life that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will restore a normal healthy condition, as it did to Mrs. Worthline.

BILIOUSNESS Caused by Acid-Stomach

If people who are bilious are treated according to local symptoms they seldom get very much better. Whatever relief is obtained is usually temporary. "Trace biliousness to its source and remove the cause and the chances are that the patient will remain strong and healthy."

Doctors say that more than 70 non-organic diseases can be traced to an Acid-Stomach. Biliousness is one of them. Indigestion, heartburn, belching, sour stomach, bloating and gas are other signs of acid-stomach. EATONIC, the marvelous modern stomach remedy, brings quick relief from these stomach troubles which lead to a long train of ailments that make life miserable if not corrected.

EATONIC literally absorbs and carries away the excess acid. Makes the stomach strong, cool and comfortable. Helps digestion, improves the appetite and you then get full strength from your food. Thousands say that EATONIC is the most effective stomach remedy in the world. It is the help YOU need. Try it on our money-back-if-not-satisfied guarantee. At all drug stores. Weak From Pain

Mrs. Gibbert Was in Misery, But Doan's Brought Her Splendid Health.

"About 15 years ago my kidneys were in bad condition," says Mrs. Lucy Gibbert, 15310 Columbia Ave., Harvey, Ill. "There was a constant, dull, bearing-down pain in the small of my back. I couldn't turn over in bed without such pain I could hardly breathe. Mornings I was stiff, sore and lame all over; my back was like a rusty hinge."

"Inflammation of the bladder nearly drove me wild. The kidney secretions passed every little while, day and night, a little at a time, and burned like fire. Great sacs of water formed under my eyes."

"I was in such misery I would become weak and so nervous I would scream. I had nerve-racking headaches and the back of my neck pained me. I was so dizzy I didn't dare bend over for fear of falling on my face. My sight became blurred. I was sick all over."

"Five boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney trouble. Since then I have enjoyed splendid health and I owe it all to Doan's."

CAPTAIN RICKENBACKER, REFEREE OF LIBERTY SWEEPSTAKES, IS AUTO "ACE"

"Eddie Rick," Known to Fame as "America's Ace of Aces."

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, known to fame as "America's ace of aces," but to auto racing fans as "Eddie Rick," selected to referee the Indianapolis 500-mile Liberty Sweepstakes, May 31, inaugurating the post-war revival of automobile racing in America, is the automobile industry's war hero, and also one of the best-known drivers of race cars that America ever produced. Since he forswore the speed game to don an army uniform and succeeded in knocking 26 Boche planes out of the sky, he announced that he would forsake his former love in the field of automotive sport and permanently abide with the new, in which he achieved his greatest honors.

Like Umpire's Job. Because he has always been noted for his square dealing, and because he has the regard and confidence of all racing drivers, Carl G. Fisher, president of the Indianapolis motor speedway, invited Captain Eddie to become chief official of the Liberty event. Being the referee of a big race is just about as popular a job as umpiring a hotly contested baseball game.

Captain Rickenbacker's war record is known to almost all race fans, for they closely followed his career in the newspapers during the 18 months that he was in France with General Pershing's warriors.

Captain Rickenbacker was an "ace" in the racing game, and one of the favorites of racing fans, long before he gained his international fame as an aviator. In 1916 he led all the drivers of American cars, and finished third in the A. A. A. driving championship.

When the last 500-mile race was run on the Indianapolis speedway, in 1916, Captain Eddie set a gruelling pace for 25 miles that would have run the field off its feet had he been able to maintain it. Disaster overtook him, however, after he had gained a mile on the field in ten laps, and a wrecked engine sent him to the pits.

In the Harvest day meet of the same year, Captain Rickenbacker and the late Johnny Aitken raced neck and neck to win the 100-mile contest that featured the day's program. It looked as though Aitken would lose, when a wheel collapsed on Rickenbacker's mount and he spun like a top before sliding off the course, with Aitken thundering by. The accident happened with two laps to go, and was one of the most spectacular in the history of the brick track.

Had Many Close Calls.

In spite of his many close calls in racing and his battles in the air, Captain Rickenbacker has never lost the smile for which he is famous. The referee of a big race must contend with the kicks and complaints of drivers, team managers, and all the men who operate the machinery of a big event. With his ability to remain good natured in the face of adversity, and also because of his intimate knowledge of the racing sport and its rules, it is believed that he will prove the most successful referee the Indianapolis track has ever had, with all the fans pulling for him to make good in his capacity of chief arbiter.

device in which the light is directed downward so as to illuminate the road, without, however, being diminished in intensity. A further object is to provide for preventing the glare which is dangerous to persons approaching the machine.

CLEAN PARTS WITH KEROSENE

Best Way Is to Use Wire Basket and Dip Different Parts in Oil, Letting Dirt Sink.

It is often necessary to clean small parts of the car, and washing in kerosene is the accepted method. The usual practice is to throw such parts in a pail of kerosene and let them lie in the muck which collects at the bottom. A better way is to get a wire basket, which will fit part way down in the vessel used to hold the kerosene, place the parts in this basket, dip them in the oil and allow the dirt to be loosened and sink to the bottom, while the parts come out perfectly clean and ready for use.

NAIL MAKES TEMPORARY PIN

Not Strong Enough for Permanent Repair, but Will Suffice in Cases of Emergency.

Breakage of a taper pin on a magnetic driveshaft or similar important part frequently causes delay and annoyance to motorists, especially if it occurs on the road, when another taper pin of the right size usually is unavailable. If this is the case a temporary pin may be quickly filed from a nail or similar piece of stock, which, while not strong enough for permanent repair, will suffice for the time it takes to secure a new pin.

DRIVE RIGHT!

Don't hog the road.
Obey all traffic signals.
Don't stop on car tracks to wait for signal. Keep near the curb.
Don't go ahead of the officer's signal and then say you did not see him.
Don't turn in middle of block in narrow side streets.
Don't stop in the line of traffic to buy a newspaper.
Don't fail to report accidents to the police department.
Try not to delay traffic by killing your engine.
Don't overinflate your tires.

STOP POUNDING OF ENGINES

Trouble May Be Due to Several Causes, Among Others Imperfect Electrical Connection.

If a pound in the engine is regular and continuous, it is likely to be from lost motion in the bearings. If it is irregular and occasional, it is more likely to be due to preignition caused by incandescent carbon or from imperfect electrical connections. If the pounding is accompanied by occasional missing, especially if the missing is more frequent when the car is running than when the engine is idling, it is more apt to be due to imperfect electrical connections.

SELF-LUBRICATING BUSHING

Comparatively Easy by Drilling Holes and Packing With Graphite Every Six Months.

It is comparatively easy to make a self-lubricating bushing for the spring bolt by drilling, say eight holes, each 3-16 of an inch in diameter through a new bronze bushing. These holes are packed with graphite, when the bushing is in place. By removing the spring bolt every six months and repacking the bushing with graphite, a nearly self-sufficing bushing, as far as lubrication goes, will result.

IN FITTING NEW CARBURETOR

Important to See There Is No Looseness to Cause Vibration—Broken Flange Results.

In fitting a new carburetor be sure that there is no looseness to cause vibration, because if there is a broken flange will be the inevitable result. If vibration is present a small iron bracket should be installed from a nut on the engine frame to the instrument to steady it, also taking the strain off the intake pipe.

"FAKE" ASPIRIN WAS TALCUM

Therefore Insist Upon Genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin"

Millions of fraudulent Aspirin Tablets were sold by a Brooklyn manufacturer which later proved to be composed mainly of Talcum Powder. "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" the true, genuine, American made and American owned Tablets are marked with the safety "Bayer Cross."

Ask for and then insist upon "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" and always buy them in the original Bayer package which contains proper directions and dosage.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

"He went all to pieces."
"What made him do that?"
"He was broke."

FIXING LEAKY FOUNTAIN PEN

Really No Need to Put Up with Annoyance That Can Be Remedied Easily.

If you have a fountain pen that leaks around the joints, especially so if it is one of those types of fountain pens having a point which disappears by turning a section of the barrel, try an application of heavy oil. To remedy the defect, soak the pen in warm water, not hot, and allow it to dry, particularly inside. Then apply oil on the spindle which revolves. The oil should be worked through the bearings from end to end. You can now refill the pen and wipe off the excess oil. A heavy cylinder oil is best for this purpose. To unscrew the parts of a fountain pen which have become set, merely heat the pen with hot water or by holding it near a flame, but be careful not to get too hot for there is danger of melting. While pen is heated a slight twist will often loosen the set.—Frank P. Goeder, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.

Destructiveness.

"See that boy?"
"Yes."
"Very destructive."
"How so?"
"Wears a suit of clothes out the first day he gets them."
"Impossible!"
"Well, he does. He wouldn't go naked, would he?"

Speaking by the Card.

"The bride looked like a queen."
"Yes, and the bridegroom looked like the deuce."—Boston Transcript.

PHYSICALLY FIT AT ANY AGE

It isn't age, it's careless living that puts men "down and out." Keep your internal organs in good condition and you will always be physically fit. The kidneys are the most overworked organs in the human body. When they break down under the strain and the deadly uric acid accumulates and crystallizes look out! These sharp crystals tear and scratch the delicate urinary channels causing excruciating pain and set up irritations which may cause premature degeneration and often do turn into deadly Bright's Disease.

One of the first warnings of sluggish kidney action is pain or stiffness in the small of the back, loss of appetite, indigestion or rheumatism.

Do not wait until the danger is upon you. At the first indication of trouble go after the cause at once. Get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL Haaslem Oil Capsules, imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They will give almost immediate relief. If for any cause they should not, your money will be refunded. But be sure to get GOLD MEDAL. None other is genuine. In sealed boxes, three sizes.—Adv.

Knocking the Judge.

A discouraged counsellor remarked to the court, "My poor client is little likely to get justice done her until the judgment day."

"Well, counsellor," said the judge, "if I have an opportunity I'll plead for the poor woman myself on that day."

"Your honor," replied the other, "will have troubles of your own upon that day."

Yes, Hazel, a man is the most important piece of furniture in a woman's air castle.

If you would win friends you must be friendly.

THERE HE STANDS!

GRAND old "Bull" Durham. He belongs in this country's Hall of Fame. Can you think of a more familiar figure? For over half a century Bull has been part of the landscape; the tobacco he represents has made millions and millions of friends.

You can roll fifty-thirty cigarettes from one bag.

The Government tax on 50 "Bull" Durham cigarettes that you roll yourself is less than 1½ cents; the Government tax on 50 machine-made cigarettes is 15 cents. It's real good sense to roll your own.

By CATHERINE PARSONS

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)Gardner Lane was busy with the delightful task of painting Amy Roland's portrait. If you had seen Amy you would have really envied him, for she was truly lovely.On this particular day Amy left the studio somewhat later than usual for the picture was just at an interesting stage and Gardner could not bear to stop work till the last bit of daylight had vanished. Mrs. Roland, who always came with her daughter, had left early to keep an appointment and Amy had promised to meet her at five.Gardner had kept her till the last possible moment and she was hurrying toward the front door, when she ran directly into a young man who was coming in the opposite direction."I beg pardon," exclaimed Amy, as she bounced back in surprise. "Why, Billy Lane," she added, as she recognized him. "Where in the world did you come from? I haven't laid eyes on you for over two years.""Just got here, Amy. I've been out in Colorado working hard. But even an obscure farmer has a right to a vacation now and then, so I'm taking two weeks this time. Maybe it isn't good to see you again—you haven't changed much except to grow up more.
I suppose you'd forgotten all about me,
though."Amy blushed slightly, but it was too dark to see."I hadn't, really; but of course two years is a long time. In another one I might forget whether your hair was red or brown. It's hard to remember much when you're kept pretty busy."Billy laughed ruefully.
Amy held out her hand with a frank and engaging smile. In another moment she was gone."For heaven's sake," cried Gardner, spying his brother from the floor above. "When did you get here? Well, maybe it isn't good to see you again, too! Is this a pleasure trip?""Not exactly. The truth of the matter is I'm enlisting in about two weeks and I wanted to see the old town before I went over.""Great Scott, you don't say so! I would myself but I'm beyond the draft age and I hate to leave my work—I I'm really needed here. Could they spare you all right?""Well, you see, I'm my own boss, so I just sold out and came along. I couldn't stay out of it any longer and I'd nothing to hold me back, either.""I'm single, too, but I may not be long—that's one reason why I don't want to enlist."

"Who is it—Louise?"

Gardner laughed. "I should say not! I've had a dozen since Louise.
It's Amy this time. I haven't told her yet, but I'm going to marry her."Two days later Amy went for another sitting for her portrait and again she found Billy in the hall on her way home."Hello, Mr. Hermit," she scoffed.
"You're not wasting time on your old friends this trip, are you?""Most of them seem to be pretty busy themselves.""Well, I'm not for one, and to prove it I'll invite you to go for a walk with me now.""Isn't it lovely out today?" cried Amy enthusiastically."Yes, but you'd never call this beautiful if you could see it out where I live. Mountains and hills and valleys everywhere you look. And the sunsets—you'd love those sunsets, Amy."They just make the whole world a blaze of glory and put peace into your soul. I can't explain how it is out there—it's too big for that. But I can tell you it impresses me. Maybe I'm daffy on the subject, but it's simply life out there to me. I feel like our poet friend who said: 'I want to go back, and I will! You'd love it out there, Amy.'""Oh, I would love it!" she agreed, and almost surprised herself by her own fervor."Will you visit me some day then—you and your husband?""We'll be delighted—provided I have one by that time.""In the meantime will you consider an invitation to dine with me this evening?""I'm sorry, Billy, but I'm going to dinner at the Seafons' with Gardner—they asked me ages ago. But I've had a lovely walk with you."

"So have I, too. Good night."

"Billy!"

"What can I do for you?"

"Don't you ever want to walk home with me again? I have three more sittings.""Of course I want to. But a man doesn't do all the things he wants to—worse luck! I'll see you before long, though. Good-by.""I think you're the limit, and you make me cross," flared Amy, and refused to notice his proffered hand.Whereupon Billy pondered long on the vagaries of women and kept out of Amy's way for the next two days.
But on the day that she came for her last sitting she found him standing before her picture in the studio with a strange look on his face."Don't look so sad, Billy—I'm not dead yet.""Hello, Amy! I didn't expect you today. Gardner went to New York, but he sent you a message at the last minute—you must have left before themessenger arrived at your home.
"I did. You don't seem overjoyed to see me yourself—don't let me keep you. What have I done to you, Billy, that you should be so hostile to me?
Don't you dare say you're not—good are!""I'm sorry, Amy—I told you I wasn't cut out for society in the first place, and I always make a mess of things."Gardner came back from New York the next morning and in the afternoon he took Amy to tea at the most fashionable hotel in town. Gardner liked to be seen at smart places—especially in company with a good-looking girl."Billy's sailing tomorrow," he said, casually, in the course of conversation.
"Where to?" asked Amy, with apparent indifference."France. He's going in aviation over there. That's really why he came east, you know. I've got to go do a town and fix up some things for him as soon as we leave here—you won't mind if I send you home in the car alone, will you?""Of course not, Gardner." Amy was trying hard not to choke on the delicious piece of French pastry which she was doing her best to swallow.
Then she received another shock.
Gardner leaned over the table and began to speak in a lowered voice.

"Amy—will you marry me?"

"Is this a surprise party?" gasped Amy."I shouldn't think you would be surprised—I made up my mind some time ago.""But I didn't know that, and as much as I've seen of you lately, it never entered my head that you loved me. I like you, but I don't love you any more than you honestly love me.
And I want to be friends—you're a better friend than you would be a husband—don't you truly think, Gardner?"Gardner smiled in spite of himself.
"Where did you learn so much about being in love, little Amy?""I learned the little I know from a very poor teacher who didn't even want me for a pupil. I'm sorry, Gardner, but I do care for someone else.
He doesn't even know I exist—hardly.
Forgive me, but it's the truth. And you'll still be my friend, won't you?""You can be perfectly sure about that," returned the rejected suitor promptly.Amy waved her hand to him and then turned and walked rapidly in the opposite direction from her own house.
Her head was dizzy and her feet seemed to travel too slowly. She dragged herself wearily up the steps of a familiar house and rang the bell."Is Mr. William Lane in?" she asked the man who answered her ring.
"In the library, miss.""Don't announce me, then—I'll go right in."Billy was sitting with his back to the door writing. Amy walked across the room before he saw her. Then he dropped his pen and sprang to his feet in amazement."Amy!" he cried. "Has something happened? You want Gardner?""No, I don't want Gardner—I've just refused to marry him. I just want to know why you are going away without saying good-by to me. It's unbelievable.""Do you mean to tell me you're not going to marry Gardner? Why not?""It's really none of your business, but I'll tell you. For the simple reason that I don't happen to care for him—not in the marrying way of caring, I mean."

"What way is that?"

"I didn't come here to talk to you about marriage, Mr. William Lane. I only came to tell you how horrid I think you are—I think I almost hate you."Billy covered the distance between them in less time than it takes to mention it. Then he caught Amy in his arms and held her till she had ceased to struggle."And I love you, love you, love you," he told her for about fifty times in as many different ways. "Look me in the eyes and tell me you hate me."But Amy was too comfortable to look up, so she didn't even answer him.After a little while Billy looked at his watch and found it was a quarter to eight."Will you go to dinner with me this time, Amy darling?" he asked her."It looks as if I'd have to. You don't know how much I wanted to go with you that day, Billy. Let's get out of the house before Gardner comes. I think it would be better to break it to him after you've been gone a few days, even though he didn't really love me at all. Oh, I wish you didn't have to go, Billy—I can't bear to think of it.""Would you marry me tomorrow if I could get a special license?"

"Yes, any time at all."

"Then we'll go and see about it—will you come with me?""Anywhere. You won't be able to lose me now. And Billy, my husband and I will be glad to come and visit you on your wild and woolly farm as soon as you come back to us.""Then, I'll have something worth fighting for now—that's what helps a man to do his duty even if it is hard work, too. I'm the luckiest person in the world today, Amy dearest.""With the exception of one other," corrected Amy, and was immediately deprived of the power of speech again.One Thing at a Time.
